

I believe in truth in advertising, so in the interest of fairness, this is more of a 10,000 word, three-month long *journal* than a book. Sick of seeing message board minions repeat, Hey, I have that, too! without offering a personal story, I decided to chart my gouty progress from Day 1 until the present day. Waking up with a mystery ailment that I'd only heard mentioned by tv characters or my now-dead male family members, I wasn't quite sure what to make of the red bulb on my toe joint. The following three months would be a lesson in habitual detriment and life re-adjustment. Doctor, I am not. So this is more of an average 40-year-old guy offering up how each day went from onset to finally being able to get around normally again. The new diet, the experiments that went wrong, and the alleged quickie cures offered by more websites than you can count. So join me on this insipid road, won't you? And maybe we can better figure this thing out as we progress from here, putting our best foot -- or big toe -- forward. Book contains mild language (no, not just English, but the softer four-letter variety).
