

El punto de referencia de esta septima novela de la tercera serie es el Convenio o Abrazo de Vergara entre Maroto y Espartero, con el que se puso fin a la Primera Guerra Carlista, una contienda que duro seis anos. El convenio se firmo tras arduas negociaciones secretas en Vergara el 31 de agosto de 1839. El lado liberal lo representaba Espartero y el carlista Maroto. La mediacion entre ambos corrio a cargo de lord John Hay, jefe de la escuadra britanica con base en Bilbao. En la novela es su protagonista, Fernando Calpena, el encargado de los entresijos y negociaciones secretas entre ambos generales que desembocaron en el acuerdo de paz. Fernando estaba por esas fechas empenado en casarse con Demetria de Castro, pero el encarnizamiento de la lucha entre ambos contendientes, una lucha que asolaba el norte de Espana en aquellas fechas, le llevo a alistarse en el ejercito liberal, donde llevo a convertirse en una figura tan importante como para que los dos generales confiaran en el las negociaciones secretas. Ademas de otros individuos de ficcion, como Zoilo Arratia, marido de Aura y enemigo de Calpena, con el que se reconcilia despues, Pilar de Loaysa, Pedro Hillo, aparecen otros personajes historicos, como los mismos Espartero y Maroto, el Pretendiente muy absoluto Carlos Maria Isidro de Borbon y John Hay, el militar ingles que, segun opinion de varios historiadores, llevo a cabo las negociaciones reales.
